

The media ownership rules currently in place are outdated. They should be revised to allow companies to own more stations.